

METHODS AND DEVICES FOR GROUPING CELLS

ABSTRACT

Rounded solutions of a linear program are used to partition or group cells, such as cells in a wireless network, in order to provide efficient approximations of network updating and paging costs.